Malawi Named Africa's Top Honeymoon Value Destination

Denver, CO (December 14, 2009) – Malawi, a small country encompassed by Tanzania, Zambia and Mozambique on the continent of Africa, today was named Africa's top honeymoon value destination by Away.com. Malawi offers newlyweds the serene wilderness of the bush, the adventure of wildlife encounters and the ocean-like atmosphere of sparkling Lake Malawi all at a more reasonable price than other popular African destinations. It is the ideal spot for active couples who want to explore the local people, history and various activities or for those who want to sit back, enjoy a slow sunset cruise and enjoy their first few weeks together as husband and wife. Ulendo Safaris (www.Ulendo.net) was also highlighted as the destination's experts in planning custom honeymoon safari vacations.

"We have an extensive track record of creating honeymoons that couples remember forever," explains Lindsay McConaghy, MD of Ulendo Safaris. "We custom design the entire experience around what the couple desires, and of course add in special touches and surprises along the way! There are few other countries in Africa that have so much to offer and can do so at an affordable price."

Malawi is a tranquil destination for those who prefer a relaxing vacation experience, away from more highly-trafficked regions within southern Africa. Known as the "warm heart of Africa," Malawi is full of rich culture and affectionate people. There are also many activities to enjoy such as swimming, diving, snorkeling, sailing, hiking and with over 650 species of birds –some of them very rare - bird watching is a must. This combination makes for an ideal honeymoon destination. To inquire about a honeymoon safari please visit <http://www.ulendo.net>.

Ulendo Safaris is widely considered to be Malawi's premier tour operator having been fortunate to enjoy steady growth since the company's inception in 1998. Ulendo grew rapidly and expanded to fill areas where local service providers simply were not meeting market demand. The company strongly believes in specializing in destinations, and after years of research and product development work has recently added Zambia to their product offering.
